

N & W Derails In Ashville

DISCUSS SITUATION—Sheriff's Detective Don Thompson, Ashville volunteer fireman and a spectator discuss the train derailment

Cause of the 29-car derailment of a 166-car N & W train in Ashville, Tuesday, has not been determined by railroad authorities today.

While trains are expected to be traveling on repaired tracks in the northeast Pickaway County village sometime today, spokesmen for the superintendent in Portsmouth have contended that an investigation of the derailment has not yet begun.

The train was traveling north from Portsmouth to Columbus at a speed of 40 miles-per-hour when the cars began derailing at the Main Street crossing in Ashville according to Daniel A. Nardi, engineer from Portsmouth. The cars continued dismantling over a two-block area to the Griggs Street crossing along Randolph Street where most of the damage occurred.

Most of the cars contained coal, however, one contained a toxic paint chemical which was watered down as a preventive measure.

The cars were squashed like an accordion with one coming to rest on Randolph Street within yards of an Ashville residence.

Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputies Nick Franklin, James Leaker, Don Thompson, Ashville Marshalls Alva Boyer, Bill Pontious and Harrison Township Fire Authorities were at the scene of the wreckage.

Railroad authorities in Portsmouth were not available to comment on the determining factor of the derailment.

which occurred in the village around 4 p.m. Tuesday. The car behind the trio came within yards of an Ashville residence.

29 CARS DEMOLISHED—Twenty-nine cars of a 166-car N & W train derailed in Ashville Tuesday. Sheriff's Authorities were at the scene of the wreckage until 8:30 p.m. trying to keep onlookers from getting too close to the wreckage.

Jet Crash Toll 110 At New York; Lightning Cause?

NEW YORK (AP) — Officials are investigating the possibility that lightning struck a jetliner attempting to land during an electrical storm, causing it to crash in flames near a crowded highway. Authorities said 110 persons aboard the flight from New Orleans died.

Fourteen survivors were hospitalized.

Firemen said early today that 108 bodies had been found in the marshy

Breakfast Costlier, Data Shows

WASHINGTON (AP) — The ingredients for a simple breakfast, of egg, toast and orange juice last month cost anywhere from 5.5 to 9 per cent more than they did a year before—but only egg farmers benefitted from the higher prices.

If some bacon or pork sausage, or perhaps a little steak, were added, the price increased substantially and the producer benefitted considerably while the middleman's take dropped.

Those conclusions were drawn from the Agriculture Department's monthly marketbasket survey of price spreads between farm and retail values of 65 foods. Over-all, the middlemen's costs and profits for the May marketbasket of a urban wage-earning family of 3.2 persons fell 1.7 per cent from April levels. The farmer's share, thanks to livestock price gains rose 3.7 per cent from the month before or 9.4 per cent above May 1974.

Orange juice showed the most dramatic increase on the middlemen's side of the items highlighted on Tuesday.

Processors, wholesalers, distributors and retailers received 20 cents of the national-average price of 27.9 cents per six-ounce can.

Taft Given Position On Gambling Panel

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Robert Taft Jr., R-Ohio, has been appointed to the Commission to Review National Policy Toward Gambling.

The 15-member commission will review the effectiveness of existing practices in law enforcement, judicial administration and corrections as they pertain to gambling.

area at the edge of Kennedy International Airport where the Eastern Airlines Boeing 727 plane, nonstop flight 66 from New Orleans, crashed late Tuesday afternoon. Two other persons died at a hospital.

There was still confusion today on the number of persons aboard the jet. A spokesman for the airline said there were 116 passengers and 7 crew members, a total of 123.

But the hospital where two of the victims died said a total of 16 persons had been admitted and the 14 were still alive. Added to the 108 bodies counted by the firemen at the crash scene, this would make a total of 124 aboard.

It was one of the worst airplane disasters in the history of the United States. In 1960, 134 persons were killed when a United Airlines DC8 and a Trans World Airlines Super-Constellation collided in the air over New York City. The nation's worst one-plane crash killed 111 persons when an Alaska Airlines 727 crashed near Juneau in 1971.

The survivors of Tuesday's crash included two small girls. Most of the survivors were badly burned.

Mayor Abraham D. Beame, who went to the crash scene by helicopter, said, "I'm numb. It's a terrible tragedy."

The National Transportation Safety Board's area supervisor, George Van Epps, said Tuesday night that there was no record of any emergency radio message from the pilot, Capt. John Kleven, of Queens.

Van Epps said flight and voice recorders had been recovered and were being sent to Washington for study. Asked about eyewitness reports that lightning had hit the plane, he said that was "something that will be considered in the investigation."

A Federal Aviation Administration investigator at the scene who asked that his name not be used said "weather was definitely a factor."

However, Isabel Burgess, a member of the NTSB investigating board, said she doubted that lightning had anything to do with the crash. She said she had only heard of two previous crashes directly attributed to lightning.

A number of eyewitnesses, most of them motorists on nearby Rockaway Boulevard, said they saw a bolt of lightning which appeared to hit the plane just before it burst into flames.

They reported seeing the plane spin across heavily traveled Rockaway Boulevard and knock down approach light stanchions before shattering into an almost unrecognizable mass of rubble.

Ohio Solons Race Deadline

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — More major issues come before state lawmakers today as they attempt to get Ohio's fiscal affairs in order before the end of the current biennium June 30.

The Senate Finance Committee scheduled a hearing tonight on a separate, $731 million transportation budget, funded substantially under the current spending level. It passed the House 84-4 Tuesday.

At the same time, majority Democrats awaited word as to what GOP Gov. James A. Rhodes plans to do with the regular state budget bill they enacted last week without a single Republican vote.

Ohio starts a new two-year bookkeeping period next Tuesday, and will be unable to pay its bills—including welfare payments and state paydays—if the legislature and governor get involved in a prolonged dispute.

However, Budget and Management Director Howard L. Collier said Tuesday he expects Rhodes will act on the $10.6 billion spending document by the end of the week, making the possibility of delayed payments a moot question.

The best guess is that Rhodes will make "line item" vetoes in the measure—rejecting certain items while approving enough others to avert

Border Clash In Lebanon Reported

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Arab gunners in Lebanon exchanged fire today with an Israeli army patrol across the border, the Israeli military command said. No Israeli casualties were reported.

A communique said the Arabs fired bazookas and small arms at the patrol in the vicinity of Zarit, a kibbutz about 11 miles east of the Mediterranean on the Lebanese border. The Israelis returned the fire.

The border has been relatively quiet since June 15-16, when an Arab terrorist attack on the Kfar Yuval kibbutz was followed by Israeli air raids into southern Lebanon and Lebanese firing at settlements along the frontier.

In Lebanon, sporadic gunfire continued for the second day in two Beirut suburbs, but Lebanese security forces reported no new casualties beyond three killed and 15 wounded the previous day.

A police statement said the shooting was accompanied by several mysterious dynamite explosions in the suburbs of Chiyah and Ein Rumaneh. They caused no damage and were "aimed at creating a state of terror in the area," it said.

The suburbs were the scene of heavy fighting in April and May between Palestinian guerrillas and Christian right-wingers of the Phalange party, and left-wing Moslems who sided with the Palestinians.

Weather

Partly cloudy today, tonight and Thursday with a chance of afternoon and evening thundershowers, high, mid to upper 80s. Low tonight, mid 60s. High Thursday, upper 80s. Probability of precipitation, 30 per cent today, tonight and tomorrow. Temperatures Tuesday were: high, 91; low, 66.

a state budget crisis. If there are delays, Collier said, "It would only be a few days...nothing cataclysmic."

Senate Majority Leader Oliver Ocasek, D-27 Akron, announced Tuesday a timetable under which the lawmakers plan to adjourn Friday for a July 4 holiday extending to July 9. He indicated the schedule could be changed, however, depending on whether the budget questions are resolved.

Senate Finance Chairman Harry Meshel, D-33 Youngstown, indicated he was in no special hurry to act on the separate transportation budget. But he denied he plans to hold it hostage pending Rhodes' actions on the bigger appropriations bill. Meshel said he sees "no reason" to give them (the transportation department) a budget when no one else has one.

The transportation budget was removed from the overall spending plan because of legislative uncertainty over the economic health of the agency which depends on gasoline and highway users taxes for its income. Both sources have been declining.

"This is a gloomy assessment," acknowledged House Finance Committee Chairman Myrl H. Shoemaker in presenting a package $194 million under current spending.

Shoemaker, D-88 Bourneville, the nominal sponsor, said the transportation department was "relying on a ($1.64 billion) bond issue this fall to be the answer to the long-range problems."

As it is currently funded, Shoemaker said "we're skeptical" that enough money is available to finance the department's top priority — maintenance of existing state highways.

The budget contains $10.2 million more than the initial transportation department request earmarked for mass transit as a means of attracting federal matching funds. The House amended that section to designate any leftover mass transit funds for the reduced bus fare program for the elderly.

The spending proposal also includes $685,000 to reinstate a summer job program for about 1,000 high school and college students. Transportation Director Richard Jackson had cancelled the program for want of funds last April.

Stripped from the legislation were several so-called pet projects that were inserted during committee hearings.

The House refused to approve special funding for completion of the Warren outerbelt and construction of an overpass grade crossing in Amherst, Lorain County.

A plan that would have halted construction on a number of projects in Cincinnati was scuttled by an amendment offered by Rep. William Mallory, D-23 Cincinnati, who had proposed the changes in the first place. A separate amendment deleted language that would have stopped construction and acquisition of property in the Mount Adams section of the city.

The four representatives voting against the overall transportation appropriation all hail from areas near the rejected special projects: Reps. Scribner Fauver, R-54 Elyria, Dennis Eckart, D-18 Euclid, James W. Rankin, D-25 Cincinnati, and Dennis Wojtanowski, D-74 Willoughby Hills.

Health Board Attacks Unsanitary Conditions

By DAVE AMEY
City Editor

Stern and swift measures to rectify a variety of unsanitary conditions ranging from a "filthy" restaurant operation to raw sewage seeping from an adjoining county were ordered by the Pickaway County Board of Health.

Six letter orders were issued by the county health officers, who met in regular session Tuesday, in an effort to directly correct some of the problems, and offer corrective suggestions in other cases.

County Health Commissioner Dr. Frank Moore issued an offer to joint aid to the Fairfield County Board of

ROUNDTOWN

IN Tuesday's edition of The Herald Circleville's emergency medical rescue team announced July 1 as the target date for becoming operational. . . . However, members of the team were informed last night by city officials they would not be able to provide emergency service until the jurisdictional area of the service is established. . . . Although the volunteers have been trained for quite some time and the rescue vehicle was delivered over a month ago, the mayor and council have not yet taken any action to establish the area of service.

THE Norfolk and Western Railway Company will conduct a one-day "Operation Clean Up" on July 1. . . . Company officials, union leaders and 27,000 employees in a 14-state area will participate in the effort. . . . Three years ago in a similar campaign, 5,600 tons of dirt, metal, wood and paper were removed from 8,000 miles of track right-of-way.

Health to "prompt them to take swift action" to stop raw sewage from leaking onto the Pickaway County side of Tarlton.

The sewage apparently flows from houses built on the Fairfield County side of Route 159 and pollutes a ditch on the Pickaway County side.

Department Supervisor Leo Kahanek outlined the problem to the Fairfield County board June 13, but no action has been taken.

Two letters were issued concerning the condition of a rental property in Circleville that was discovered by Health Nurse Linda Davis following a home visit requested by Childrens Services.

The board ruled that 2 conditions at the dwelling created a health hazard and caused it to be unfit for human habitation. The owner will be notified by formal letter concerning conditions of alleged lack of running water, roof leaks, and no screens.

A formal letter will also be sent to the Child Welfare Board requesting immediate action for the renters and immediate action for future problems.

Action to clean-up a restaurant is expected by the board after department personnel contacted the owner of the establishment. The restaurant was inspected after three complaints were lodged.

The board also authorized the city solicitor to send a nuisance letter to the owner of a livestock "farm" within the corporate boundaries of Circleville.

A Circleville homeowner whose house was gutted by fire early this month has until July 2 to commercially fumigate the dwelling, the board said after neighbors complained of roaches allegedly thriving in the building and infecting surrounding property.

A condemnation suit will be sought if the initial letter is ignored, board members said.

Legal paperwork charging a developer with violating a board-sought injunction concerning discharge of untreated waste is pending, board members learned.

The injunction was granted to stop the developer from renting property on the Circleville-Lockbourne-Eastern Rd. until the sewage system could be altered to meet requirements. Further action was ordered, however, when the developer apparently violated the injunction, the board said.

A variance sought by a prospective homeowner on Route 752 was denied by the board. Hugh Barnhill, department environmentalist, said the soil composition in the area wouldn't allow for proper sanitary drainage.

However, board members decided to study a variance sought by three Columbus men who want to subdivide an 85-acre tract that is partially located in the building freeze area near Ringgold.

The freeze, within a one mile radius of the village, was ordered when an accumulation of bedrock was discovered there that severely impacts

THERE'S JUSTICE FOR ALL -- BUT UNEQUAL DISTRIBUTION

Markets

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market showed little change today, pausing to test the winds at its highest level in more than a year.

The opening Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was about even with Tuesday's close, and gained held a very slight edge on losers at the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts said it looked as though investors were holding out to see what new trends might develop in short term interest rates.

They also noted some carryover of the profit taking that set in toward the close of Tuesday's session.

Today's early prices included Borden, down 1/4 at 23; RCA unchanged at 20 3/4; Raymond International, off 1/4 at 21, and S.S. Kresge, steady at 30 1/4.

Man Charged With Murder

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP)—Marion Adkins, 37, of Monroe, Ohio, has been charged with murder in connection with a tavern shooting during an argument over a bowling game Monday night, Middletown police said.

Adkins was placed under police guard at Middletown Hospital. He was shot in the chest.

Dead following the Monday night incident was Eugene Woodward, 37, of Middletown. His brother, Harold Woodward, 40, was wounded in the arm, police said.

NEARS END OF REIGN—Vicki Radcliff, the daughter of Sheriff and Mrs. Dwight Radcliff, is nearing the end of her reign as Miss Ashville Fourth of July. During her reign Vicki has traveled throughout Ohio attending more than 20 festivals and events while promoting Ashville's annual celebration. She made her final appearance on behalf of the Fourth of July Celebration at National Clay Week June 14. Her successor will be chosen July 2 during the first night activities of this year's celebration in Ashville.

water and sewage development.

The plan to convert the land into five-acre plots was referred to the Soil Conservation Service for "intensive study."

A study will also be instituted by the board to check financing and feasibility of acquiring an Alcoholism coordinator through the Mid-Ohio Regional Alcoholism Program.

The coordinator would be hired initially through CETA Title 6 monies to coordinate all local efforts in combating alcoholism in the Pickaway County region.

Space limitations in the health department building and the need for additional secretarial assistance are major issues to be investigated.

Dayton Loses 2nd Battle Over Schools

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Dayton, Ohio schools have lost a second battle in the 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in efforts to preserve its neighborhood school system and at the same time comply with orders to eliminate racial segregation.

The appellate court Tuesday struck down a second school desegregation plan but gave the system another year to develop a new one while eliminating racially identifiable schools where possible for the upcoming school year.

The appellate court rejected a plan in 1974 that opted for specialized schools to attract both whites and blacks away from racially identifiable schools.

The new plan modified the old one and the appellate court agreed with the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) that the plan still leaves racially identifiable schools in the system. However, the court said there was not time to order a system-wide plan developed in time for the opening of schools in September.

The three-judge panel rejected the school board's argument that the Equal Educational Opportunity Act of 1974 requires children to attend the nearest school in neighborhood school systems. The jurists said the suit and its previous decision on Dayton schools predates the new law.

5th Millionaire Drawing Slated

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Four days short of the first anniversary of Ohio's lottery, 100 persons will compete for nearly $1.4 million in the lottery's fifth millionaire drawing.

A lottery official confirmed Tuesday that the drawing will be held at Scioto Downs.

The lottery began ticket sales on Aug. 9, 1974.

The contestants were to be announced later.

systems has mushroomed into the problem. The systems were apparently designed to empty into tile which drained into the creek.

Another sewage dispute in the Derby area has apparently been settled when department personnel convinced a homeowner by means of septic dye that sewage was leaking into a ditch on property owned by the Flo-Lizer Co.

A malfunctioning lift pump is suspected to be responsible for the second outbreak of raw sewage leaking at Caroline Court.

The sewage system for the apartments, while owned by developers, is connected with Circleville's sewage system by means of privately-owned lift stations.

The electric motors in the stations are apparently malfunctioning and causing the sewage to seep from manhole covers installed between the feeder lines and the apartments.

Personnel from the Ohio Environmental Protection Agency and the health department are in the process of inspecting subdivision sewage plants to determine minimum compliance standards.

Two reported cases of hepatitis, one which may have been responsible for the death of a Fayette County woman, have been reported in New Holland.

However, health officials say their investigation showed that the resurgence of the disease was only an isolated case.

The health nurses uncovered one case of active tuberculosis in a Pickaway County man who is currently being treated in a Columbus hospital.

They checked 77 children in the pre-natal clinics, 46 at the Well-Child clinic, administered 79 immunizations, and checked 10 people at the chest clinic.

Six people are undergoing treatment in the newly-operational VD clinic, and 19 children are still on the waiting list for glasses under the Sight Saver Fund operation.

Nurses plan to assist with physical examinations for children attending Salvation Army, YMCA, and Children's Services summer camps.

Board members plan to keep abreast of the recently-enacted section of the Revised Code that alters the definition of a farm for tax purposes from five to 30 acres.

Status of the code change will be monitored in an effort to tailor subdivision standards to the farm definition.

Board Members received an Attorney General's opinion that they would retain their sovereign immunity even under adoption of House Bill 800 which implies that boards of health could be sued.

The board will meet July 22 at 8 p.m. in regular session.

Grove City Girl Hurt In Cycle Wreck

Eighteen-year-old Marie Beth Ogg, Grove City, was taken to a Mt. Sterling doctor for injuries sustained in a motorcycle accident on Route 207, 10:50 a.m. Tuesday.

According to the report taken by Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputy Bill Dountz, Miss Ogg was southbound on 207 attempting to make a left turn onto the Crownover-Mill Road when the cycle slid on the freshly graveled road.

A passing motorist took Miss Ogg to Dr. Young's office where she was treated for lacerations to the left elbow and contusions and abrasions to both legs.

Both drivers involved in a two-car accident, 9:55 a.m. Tuesday, on the Circleville-London Road, received minor injuries, according to the report taken by Deputy F. R. McCoy.

Joseph A. Seely, 19, Grove City, was southbound on London Road when he failed to yield to a car driven by Derek B. Aukerman, 16, Route 1, Orient, who was making a left turn into a private drive.

After striking Aukerman's auto, the Seely vehicle continued on striking an electric pole and fence.

Seely was treated and released at Berger Hospital for lacerations to the right arm. Aukerman was referred to a doctor for a bump on the head.

No citation was issued.

Prison Furloughs To Be Extended

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — New Ohio Department of Rehabilitation and Correction rules that go into effect Tuesday will allow prison inmates to get up to two weeks of unsupervised furloughs each year.

The furloughs can be no longer than seven days each. They were provided for in a law passed last year by the Ohio General Assembly. The department drew up the regulations.

Joseph Ashley, a department spokesman, said the furloughs can go only to non-dangerous, trustworthy prisoners.

Ashley said they will be granted for inmates to visit dying relatives, attend funeral services for a relative, arrange a parole plan or take part in rehabilitative activities.

YMCA

SANDY WARREN
Gymnastics Instructor

With the dates of July 14 through 18 fast approaching, it is essential that registrations be made for the Gymnastic Clinic for girls planned by the Pickaway County Family YMCA and directed by the Kent State University Gymnastic staff.

Rarely has the opportunity for such extensive and experienced gymnastic instruction been available in Circleville.

Kent State consistently produces fine gymnastic teams under the direction of Janet and Rudy Bachna, experts in this field. Kent State is the State of Ohio Division II Champions for 1974-75 and had a season record of 12-2. Their lifetime record stands at 102 wins, 7 losses; also won the 12th Annual Quad Meet and finished third in the Midwest Regional, out of a field of six states with representation by 25 schools.

Instructors for the scheduled Circleville Clinic are to be Dave Flugum, a Kent State graduate, who participated on the men's varsity team for two years. He is an outstanding floor exercise performer and has fine ability to communicate and analyze gymnastic skills. He served as gymnastics coach for the Medina schools this past year.

Sandy Warren, also a Kent graduate, received her early training at the Dayton YMCA, later became a member of the Canton YMCA team and during her four years as a member of the Kent women's team, was an all around competitor. She has been in both the women's Regionals and Nationals the past four years and has spent the past several summers teaching at summer gymnastics camps. She has been a member of the Kent staff the past two summers.

The clinic will be 40 hours of concentrated instruction in basic skills, safety around equipment, expanded knowledge of routines, analysis of setting up routines, hints on what judges look for in competition and better understanding of spotting methods.

Registrations should be made at the YMCA office by July 1. Plans are to keep the class small for lots of individual attention, but without sufficient registrations, the Clinic will be cancelled after July 1.

Lions Hold Installation

Fertilizer Plant Ravaged By Blaze

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A three-alarm fire at a fertilizer manufacturing plant destroyed 90 per cent of the Federal Chemical Co. here Tuesday, authorities said.

The fire was discovered by a plant guard who was chasing trespassers from the complex of wooden buildings when he noticed the fire about 4:35 a.m.

Company officials gave no immediate damage estimate. Arson investigators were called to the plant.

Three large tanks of liquid ammonia about 40 feet from a blazing shed were wet with an overhead boom nozzle to keep them from overheating. Although the chemical is not explosive, a fireman said, it is extremely toxic.

Freak Accident Fatal To Youth

MARYSVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Edward Vigar, 18, of Marysville, was killed in a freak auto accident on a Union County road early today.

Authorities said Vigar and a companion had parked the car and were raccoon hunting when they noticed the auto was rolling down the road.

Vigar jumped in front of the vehicle in an attempt to stop it and was run over, officials said.

1040 U.S. Individual Income Tax Return for the year ending 12-31-1974 Taxpayers Ask IRS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

(Q) I've been out of work and looking for a new job for two months. Are any of my expenses related to the job search tax deductible?

(A) Yes. In a recent ruling, the IRS has determined that expenses directly incurred in seeking new employment are tax deductible under certain circumstances. (Previously, employment agency fees paid only after actually obtaining a job were deductible.) Among the deductible costs of a job search are counseling and employment agency fees, resume preparation, mailing and postage. In addition, reasonable travel and out-of-town food and lodging expenses are now deductible. However, the IRS says that such job hunting expenses for a trade or business different from the one in which you previously worked are not deductible. If it has been some time since you worked in the field in which you are presently looking for a job, the IRS may disallow your expense deductions. Furthermore, people entering the labor market for the first time may not deduct their costs for a job search.

(Q) I'm starting a business and expect to hire one or two employees. What kinds of tax records should I keep on these employees?

(A) You must keep all records pertinent to the amounts you deduct from their salaries for Federal and state income tax and social security tax. No particular form of records is required but they should include the amounts and dates of all wage payments subject to these taxes, the names, addresses and occupations of employees receiving such payments and the periods of their employment. In addition, record the periods for which they are paid while absent due to sickness or personal injuries and the amount and weekly rate of such payments. Furthermore, you must keep on file their social security account numbers, their income tax withholding exemption certificates (Forms W-4 and W-4E), your employer identification number, duplicate copies of quarterly and annual returns filed and the dates and amounts of deposits made for these taxes, if any. You should keep such records at least four years after the date the tax to which they relate becomes due or is paid, whichever is later. For further information, you may wish to call your local IRS office and obtain a copy of "Your Business Tax Kit."

(Q) I'm just beginning my practice as a dentist. What tax deductions are available to me as a result of my profession?

(A) If you practice a profession, you can deduct the ordinary and necessary expenses incurred in your practice. These include memberships in professional societies, subscriptions to technical journals, expenses for the care and maintenance of your car used in your profession (however, commuting expenses from your home to your office are not deductible), office rent and telephone. Books and professional equipment with a useful life of more than one year must be capitalized and a depreciation deduction may be taken each year until the asset is fully depreciated (but not below a reasonable salvage value). For more information on business deductions, you may wish to call a nearby IRS office and request a copy of "Your Business Tax Kit."

Hoarding Of Canning Lids Seen

WASHINGTON (AP) — A major manufacturer of home canning jars and lids delivered 5,000 boxes of them to a Michigan fishing village during the spring's last snowstorm. At two boxes to a family, they were sold out in 12 hours, the firm said.

It took only four times as long, Rep. Charles Grassley, R-Iowa, relates, for a store he heard about in the Midwest to sell out its normal three-month allotment of 600 dozen lids at two dozen a customer.

One of the major issues showing up in Sen. Robert Dole's mail is an alleged shortage of canning jars and lids, but especially the non-reuseable lids and caps.

The problem is hoarding, says Nancy Harvey Steorts, Agriculture

Secretary Earl L. Butz's consumer adviser. "We've got to stop it," she adds.

"It's just like they're running them into the Pacific and dumping them," commented an official of Kerr Glass Manufacturing Corp. in Oklahoma.

Vern Schranz, spokesman for Ball Corp., said that, in the first four months of this year, twice as many jarlid combinations and boxes of lids were shipped, drawing the company's reserves down entirely.

Representatives of Kerr, Ball and Bernardin, the major manufacturers, were asked to testify today and Wednesday before a House Small Business Committee panel on the situation in late June, as home gardeners outside the South start looking at tomato and cucumber plants that are ready for picking.

For new canners, "there are plenty of jars out there," the Kerr and Ball officials agreed, noting that seven new glasscontainer manufacturers entered the field this year. "They're starting to stack up now," Kerr said.

Ball and Kerr are working three shifts a day and seven days a week to meet the unprecedented demand caused by an estimated six million new home-canning families this season, an increase equal to last year's.

The emphasis now is on lids, the Kerr spokesman said, with "demand fairly well equalized" geographically.

Because of "the political pressures and consumer mail," he added, "we're not adhering to our pattern" of shipping the higher percentage of supplies by region, starting with the South and Southwest first as crops come in.

What apparently is hoarding is most prevalent in the Northeast, Mrs. Steorts has said.

Schranz said Ball is keeping its distribution pattern — now shifting to the northern tier.

The industry plans to continue its present output through first frosts.

Name Omitted

A final recount of honor roll students in the Logan Elm School District revealed yet another name was inadvertently omitted by the school personnel.

Debbie Azbell, Grade 11, was among the students attaining honor roll status.

EEA Funds Extended

Funds for the Emergency Employment Act (EEA) have been extended for another month, until July 30, according to a report to the county commissioners Monday. This federally funded program created jobs for four men in the county under the Pickaway County Sheriff, Dwight Radcliff.

At the end of July, the men are considered "positive terminations." Greg Bigam, program coordinator for the Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA), said this term means all the men have been hired for new jobs.

Two of the men were hired by Commissioners Robert Liston, Dick Tootle and Donald Strous. One man will be transferred to the CETA program as Deputy Sheriff, Bigam said. The fourth man will go back to his personal business as a carpenter.

Bigam said the CETA program was enacted by the federal government to decrease unemployment and aid the county where extra help is needed. It also trains the employees in skills that may lead to other jobs when this one terminates.

The CETA program is over in February, 1976, unless Congress passes a bill for its extension.

Prison Guard Firings Upheld

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Striking state employees can be fired for absenteeism although they have been off the job only one or two days, the state Personnel Board of Review ruled Monday.

In a 2-1 decision, the board upheld the legality of the firings of about 150 prison guards during a May "no contract" walkout at three penal institutions.

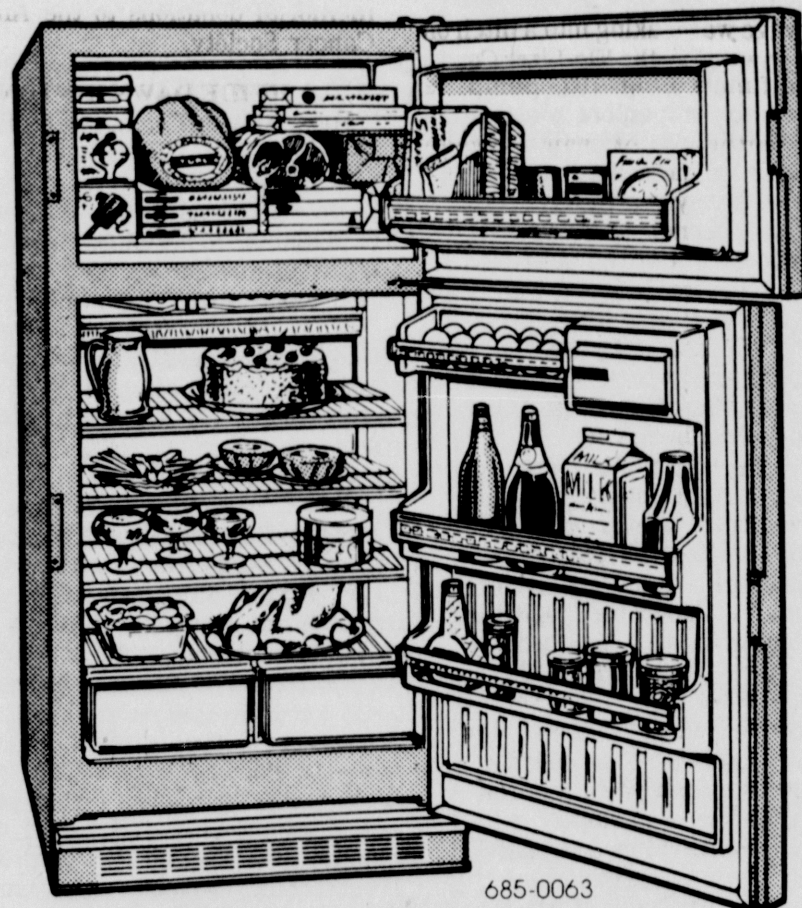

Attorneys for the guards said administrative rules of civil service require that a firing for absenteeism be based on habitual absence of three or more successive days.

The board majority said a shorter period of absence is grounds enough "if the absence is of sufficient seriousness."

Board Chairman Warren S. Earhart and board member Frank E. Avren voted for the decision. The third board member, James A. Hugel, voted against it.

Hearings have been scheduled before the board beginning July 8 on worker appeals from the firings. The hearings will be held at the institutions.

Good Stories I Can't Believe

By JIM BISHOP

Big John was a great storyteller. It was difficult to find the place where truth ended and the embroidery began. He drew great joy from fascinating people who came to our house.

He had a good vocabulary and used it like the deep notes of a theater organ. Looking backward—and listening—I can see the round ruddy face, the white hair, the sparkling blue eyes and I marvel that a non-writer knew how to paint the scene and the weather first, then drop the characters into each story like croutons on pea soup.

On one story I challenged him, and Big John became enraged. He was close to disowning me again when he heard my apology. Sometimes he followed me to the bedroom to disown me, depending upon his condition and mine.

The story was about an engagement party he attended at the turn of the century. There were pretty girls in floor-length gowns and ice cream swirls of hair. And there were boys in stiff collars, hair parted in the middle and slicked to the ears.

The merry-makers played several games. One was called "Who's next to be married?" It involved the girl who was engaged standing in a circle of girls holding a hand mirror. She was blindfolded and spun in dizzy circles.

When she stopped, the mirror would be pointed at one girl. The winner—if that is the proper term—took the mirror and walked to the head of the stairs.

At the top, her back was to the staircase. By holding the mirror tilted, she was able to look down the stairway and see her bridegroom-to-be. It was just a game.

This one held the mirror over her shoulder. My father said that a stranger, a handsome-looking man in a full dress suit and gleaming high hat, walked through the group at the bottom of the stairs and started up.

The girl's happy face turned suddenly to terror. She clutched her bosom and fell in a dead faint. The mirror clattered down the stairs and the stranger disappeared.

My father noticed, as the man started upward, that he had one shoe and one cloven foot. After he disappeared, the people who owned the house found the hot searing imprint of a cloven hoof on every other step.

The young lady had been promised to marriage to Satan himself. When she recovered consciousness, Big John told me sadly, the poor girl's mind was deranged.

When I protested, he put on his don't-tell-me-I-was-there snarl. My mother seldom listened to his painted poems. "He's a damn liar," she said, and then looked at the kitchen ceiling and said, "God forgive me."

There was another story he told that I tried hard to believe. It happened on a cold winter night in 1906 at the West 8th St. station of the Jersey Central Railroad.

A young lady was being walked home toward Bergen Point by her fiancé. He had been pressing her to marry him, but she had declined with grace. "Harry," she said, "I want a good solid marriage. You tell me you

There is one slight drawback. The grass cutter may have to be milked. Nancy and Gerald Hackett may not become tycoons renting goats to homeowners tired of pushing mowers, but they are having fun with some of their farm's resident livestock.

Goats munching on the front lawn may not be the answer for everyone, but they could be a step toward the imaginative answers to common problems many people will be looking for in the years ahead. But like humans who toil in the yard, goats do sometimes have trouble differentiating between weeds and flowers.

love me, but how can I tell? He said he knew his love was eternal, but he couldn't prove it. In caprice, she asked him to take her to the station platform for some gum. Harry did it. "Shall we walk across the tracks instead of going down to the street?" He was ready to say yes to anything.

There is a big curve in four tracks at this point. The couple saw workers waiting for a commuter train, but it didn't alarm them. They made it halfway across the first track when the girl's heel caught in a closed switch.

Harry bent to lift the shoe out. Then he heard the whistle of the oncoming train. Frantically, he tried to unlace the high shoe. He didn't make it. When he saw the saffron light of the locomotive, he jumped to his feet. "Run!" the girl shrieked. "Run, Harry!"

He clasped her in his arms. Her cheek was as cold as the night. Commuters were leaning down from the platform trying to reach the couple. They heard him shout, "Now do you believe I love you?"

Both were killed by the train. I have seen my old man make people cry with that one. He went through two rounds of port wine telling it. I would like to believe it—I want to believe it—but I keep hearing momma's critique . . .

Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The Articles of Confederation never envisioned the withering away of state power, said Dan Lufkin. "Our constitution is a grant of authority from the states to the federal government."

Return that power to the states, and many of the blunders and confusions of bureaucracy — the insensitivity, the remoteness, the lack of response, even irresponsibility — will be removed.

Moreover, join private enterprise in cooperative ventures with state government and you enhance the merits of each. "Private industry competing at a profit for the public good. This is the best of all worlds."

No book of 252 pages can be condensed into a few paragraphs, but this is one of the important messages of "Many Sovereign States," a book as provocative and varied as the author's career.

While Lufkin, 43, is one of the country's most successful young men, the book quite literally has its origins in some contemplations at the garbage dump.

Many people familiar with the investing world will recognize Dan Lufkin as the middle partner in one of Wall Street's most scintillating success stories, the growth of the asset management firm of Donaldson, Lufkin & Jenrette from a $100,000 investment to $68 million in assets.

The ideas in Lufkin's book were developed mainly in his role as Connecticut environmental commissioner from September 1971 to July 1973, specifically in building the state's Solid Waste Authority.

The authority was set up to resolve once and for all, it is hoped, the disposal of the 8.6 pounds of solid waste generated daily by each citizen in Connecticut's 169 communities.

Old techniques had failed. The town dumps were filling. The "advanced" disposal technique of incineration merely transferred the problem from ground and water to air. Both air and water were being polluted.

Lufkin and others were convinced that resolution of the problem could result only from local initiative. They felt that the federal government was too distant to understand and adapt to the peculiar problems of each community.

They were also convinced that private enterprise, fighting to make a dollar, must be given an opportunity to tackle the problems since public enterprise hadn't seemed able to come up with solutions.

They purposely limited the authority to 30 paid employees, although it was empowered to raise as much as $250 million. Private bids were solicited for a statewide program, and further bids will be let to implement the system day by day.

One result may be that Connecticut will become an extractive state, a mining state, the ore being the garbage that will be processed and the metals and other retrievable objects sold to manufacturers.

Lufkin estimates that the pelletized residue then will be sufficient to supply 15 per cent of the state's total energy requirements. Contracts already have been agreed upon for Northeast Utilities to mix the pellets with fossil fuels in producing electricity.

But more central to the theme of Lufkin's book is that the project will involve government and business in complementary roles. He calls it the "reprivatization" of thinking. "Government is expensive; private enterprise lowers costs," he says.

His experience leads him to these conclusions, among others:

"As long as great national institutional monoliths are constructed to attempt to deal with problems that are essentially local, monopoly will exist, and the people will be dominated by a cold and remote bureaucracy."

"Only when control of these operations is broken up and localized in the state or community is the threat of bureaucratic monopoly lessened, if not eliminated."

"On the state level," he concludes, "the voice of the voter is the voice of the neighbor . . . not some disembodied 'vox populi,' but the angry roar of the people down the street whom the politicians can't avoid until just before next election day."

Old Banner Being Loaned To Institute

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — A Cincinnati antique dealer says he is loaning a 135-year-old political marching banner to the Dayton Art Institute for research to pinpoint its origin.

Bill Metcalfe said Monday that the museum plans to study the five foot-by-six foot oil on canvas that he discovered more than a year ago in a Centerville barn and purchased "at junk value price."

Metcalfe said the banner has been appraised at $35,000, but he has no plans to sell it, despite overtures from several interested parties.

He said his research links it to the 1840 Whig Party's gubernatorial convention at Dayton where William Henry Harrison, the party nominee for president, drew a crowd of 100,000.

The banner is currently on exhibit at the Cincinnati Public Library.

A large portrait of George Washington is featured on one side of the banner, with the Battle of Lake Erie on the opposite side.

Metcalfe said current research has narrowed the list of potential artists to "about five." He did not list them.

Today is Wednesday, June 25, the 176th day of 1975. There are 189 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1950, North Korea invaded the Republic of Korea. It was the beginning of the Korean war.

On this date — In 1815, Napoleon Bonaparte made a farewell address before being exiled to Saint Helena.

In 1876, General George Custer's force was massacred in the Battle of the Little Big Horn in Montana.

In 1934, it was announced that 16,000,000 Americans were on relief.

In 1967, President Lyndon Johnson and Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin concluded talks at Glassboro State College in New Jersey and pledged that the U.S. and U.S.S.R. would not let any crisis push them into nuclear war.

Ten years ago: Hanoi Radio reported that an American sergeant, Harold Bennett, had been executed in Vietnam, apparently in retaliation for South Vietnam's firing-squad execution of a Vietcong terrorist.

Five years ago: U.S. Secretary of State William Rogers unveiled a new Mideast peace initiative calling on the Arabs and Israelis to agree to a 90-day cease-fire.

One year ago: The United Nations peacekeeping forces in the Mideast Golan Heights region suffered their first casualties as four Austrian soldiers were killed by a land mine.

Today's birthdays: Broadway producer George Abbott is 86. Lord Louis Mountbatten of Britain is 75.

Thought for today: Women forgive injuries, but never forget slights — Thomas Haliburton, Canadian jurist, 1796-1865.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

My father is being treated with cortisone and ACTH. I read about how dangerous these things are and I wonder why they are being used.

Miss V.S., Penn.

Dear Miss S.: You did not mention the nature of the condition for which these hormones have been prescribed.

Your anxiety is rather typical of a great many people who are unnecessarily confused and concerned. These remarkable hormones have been of tremendous value in many types of illness that previously were considered hopeless. Physicians use cortisone and ACTH with great care and keep their patients under constant supervision.

Cortisone is the hormone secreted by the adrenal gland which lies adjacent to the kidney.

ACTH is manufactured in the pituitary gland in the brain. Both are part of the complex relay system that keeps the organs of the body in balance. Many people who might otherwise have been invalidated are maintained in good health by the careful use of these hormones.

Does the danger of trichinosis still exist in America? Our family loves pork. Occasionally I worry about it.

Mrs. R. O., Iowa

Dear Mrs. O.: The parasite "trichinella spiralis" does, indeed, still occur in pork and pork products that are contaminated.

The United States Public Health Service constantly monitors meat processing plants to be sure that contaminated products do not reach the public.

Even with the most rigid rules, trichinosis occasionally occurs. All pork and pork products should be thoroughly cooked. Only in this way can the parasite be destroyed and trichinosis and its complications be prevented.

Gangster Set To Testify On CIA Plot

WASHINGTON (AP) — John Rosselli, a former member of the Al Capone gang, has been questioned many times by police and government investigators during his 70 years. Now he faces questions from a Senate panel about his alleged link to a CIA plot to kill Fidel Castro.

His responsiveness to these different inquiries has varied. In the 1920s, law enforcement officials wanted to ask him about the shooting death of the key witness in a case in which Rosselli stood accused of selling morphine. But he jumped bail and disappeared.

Two years ago he declined to answer questions from staff members of the Senate Watergate committee about his dealings with Robert A. Maheu, the former chief of Howard Hughes' Nevada operations. Rosselli based his refusal on the ground of national security, although his attorney had stated in 1971 that Rosselli had worked with Maheu in a CIA plot to kill Castro.

Because the panel was probing Hughes' campaign donations, the staff decided not to pursue Rosselli's involvement.

But his attorney, Leslie Scherr, says Rosselli now is ready to talk to the Senate intelligence committee about that CIA plot.

Back in the 1930s, as a member of the Capone gang, Rosselli piled up 16 arrests for possession of a loaded weapon. Over the years, Rosselli reputedly has made a living in a number of illegal fashions, although he lists his occupation as insurance and public relations and is described as a dapper, soft-spoken gentleman.

In the 1940s he went west in what law enforcement officials view as part of an effort by the recently murdered Chicago rackets chief Sam Giancana to expand his operations to Las Vegas and Los Angeles.

In 1944, Rosselli was convicted of participating in a scheme to extort millions of dollars from Hollywood movie studios. He was paroled after serving three years of a 10-year sentence.

Water Agency At Loggerheads

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)— Cincinnati Waterworks Supt. Charles Bolton reported the city has appropriated funds to both collect water bills and at the same time prevent their collection.

"Such are the complications in the country of confusion," Bolton wrote in his monthly newsletter.

"It could only happen in the Village of Dumbkopf."

Bolton said the city will spend $1.5 million this year to collect water bills. At the same time, it is making over $100,000 available to the Legal Aid Society which has filed suit to prevent bill collections in some instances.

Letters To The Editor

EDITOR'S NOTE: While The Herald encourages open comments from its readers, the opinions expressed are not necessarily those of the management. Letters to the editor must be signed and should be of 300 words or less.

Dear Editor: The plight of the newly formed girls softball league in the community (as expressed in last Monday's letter to the editor) is a prime example of what I believe is a very serious deficiency in the city of Circleville. Namely the lack of recreational activities.

Although the city has progressed rapidly in many areas, city and county recreational opportunities are at a minimum, and it looks as though this stagnation will continue unless city council and the public itself become aware of the importance of having a quality, professionally-run, city recreation department.

The local YMCA does its best in providing what it can, but has a definite lack of facilities and money in order to meet the obvious needs of a city as diverse as ours.

With the formation of a public recreation department would come opportunities for all ages. Youth, teens, adults, and senior citizens would all prosper as quality recreational programs could be provided in areas from adult athletic leagues to playgrounds for children. Whereas participation in most YMCA programs almost always involve a fee, a public supported recreation department would get its life from community tax dollars and could not justify itself in charging a fee for most of its programs. A city recreation department would be able to utilize public facilities such as the high school and junior high gymnasiums which now sit idle in the summer and on winter evenings.

Probably the most important feature that any recreation department can have is the leadership it provides. Professionally trained recreation leaders, schooled in the values and implications of recreation, could provide this leadership and the community would be better for it.

As far as recreation is concerned, I think Circleville has tremendous potential. I'm sure that there are many people who feel as I do, and would welcome the opportunity to investigate the possibilities in depth. I strongly urge these people to make their feelings known. Public opinion can do much to shape a city's future.

It has been said that the true character of a city is reflected in how it uses its leisure time. It is now up to the people to decide whether this time will be idled away or used in a meaningful, constructive vein. A public recreation department would do its utmost to reinforce the latter.

United Nations Deeply Troubled After 30 Years

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United Nations Charter is 30 years old Thursday and the anniversary finds the membership, swollen to thrice its original size, toying with a potential self-destruct mechanism.

Many residents of the glass house on New York's East River have been throwing stones; recklessly, say some Westerners. Conceivably such activities could start the organization on the sort of path to oblivion taken in the 1930s by the League of Nations.

A charter, supposedly supreme law for all, was signed June 26, 1945, by 51 nations still reeling from World War II. Among the stated purposes were these: to shield successive generations from war; to reaffirm faith in freedom, human rights and the dignity of person; to promote social progress. Article VI provided that a member continually violating the charter should be expelled.

Today, a United Nations bursting with 138 members, many of them microstates with less population than a good-size American city, remains far short of the ideals enunciated in the charter, and indeed, if Article VI were enforced, considerably more than half the members would have to be tossed out.

The United Nations is not what it was meant to be any more than was the League, perhaps because dreams seldom come true. The euphoria that had much of humanity talking in terms of brotherhood after the big war long ago faded.

Three perilous decades have passed without another world war. The balance of nuclear terror may have played the key role in that. Still, the United Nations has demonstrated it is eminently useful. Even now, the physical presence of U.N. soldiers as buffers in the Middle East is a measure of assurance against sudden and immense world crisis.

But there is much on the debit side, including the fact of the United Nations' division into blocs, blocs within blocs and overlapping blocs. A majority, about 75 nations, likes to consider itself "non-aligned" with either the Soviet or the Western camp, and thus a "Third World." In reality, there are five or six worlds, often at a variety of cross purposes. There are an African group of 42 nations, an Arab bloc of 20, an Asian bloc, a Latin bloc, a Soviet bloc and a Western bloc.

Nations with 10 per cent of the world's population that produce 5 per cent of its goods have a voting majority in the General Assembly. The "Third World" can and does push through the assembly any measure it wants, even if in violation of the charter, as was the case in the last session when it suspended South Africa, a right supposed to rest only with the Security Council.

The United States, as the richest and most powerful member, has become the main target of this clamorous majority. Responsible Americans call the 29th session that ended in December something of a disaster. Dominated by a Third World truculence that was encouraged by opportunity-seeking Communists, it evoked angry reaction in the United States. Ambassador John Scali hotly denounced what he called "the tyranny of the majority."

Might the United States one day run out of patience? Americans still seem to have considerable patience left, but they and others at the same time see something like a crisis of accomplishment afflicting the United Nations and find it unconvincing in the role of protector of the peace.

Critics find the organization united in name only; clumsy, unwieldy and inflexible in a time of swift change; capable at best of negative stopgap measures, a finger in a dike.

But the United Nations isn't a legislature and can be only as effective as its members permit. At each session, the assembly adopts scores of resolutions, some of them all but meaningless and voted in response to bloc pressures. Each session the assembly hears millions of words of oratory. But it lacks power.

What power there is rests with the Security Council, originally 11 members, now 15. But its five "permanent" members each has a veto that can frustrate any measure that fails to please. Of the 134 vetoes in 30 years, the Russians cast 110.

Still, over the years the United Nations contributed to human hopes for the future — or to hopes that there would be a future. One contribution was the simple fact that it was there.

It was there in 1946, using the force of world opinion to make the Russians give up an attempt to grab Iran's province of Azerbaijan. It set up an atomic energy agency and helped develop concepts such as limits on testing and nonproliferation of nuclear weapons. It intervened in a series of nasty crises in the Middle East, Cyprus and the Congo. It provided a framework for international cooperation in fields of culture, technology, trade, health, food, child and refugee assistance and related matters. It provided a forum for investigation of world environmental problems and its Stockholm Conference of 1972 is credited with much success in getting cooperative efforts on the road.

But on major issues, matters such as disarmament and superweapons, spheres of influence and war and peace, the United Nations is bypassed by the two superpowers who, in the long run, have the only truly decisive voices.

Especially lately, questions have been raised whether the United Nations is going to be able to cope with the grave challenges ahead.

Communist China, a member now for four years, is an important factor in the new look, claiming as it does to speak for a Third World demanding bigger shares of the earth's wealth.

The assembly performance in 1974 generated American and West European resentment. At a special session on raw materials in the spring, the majority bulldozed through a declaration demanding a "new world economic order," voting it 120 to 6 over strenuous U.S. objections after blaming "imperialism," meaning the Americans, for just about every one of the world's current woes.

The regular 29th Assembly in the fall, dominated again by an Asian-African-Arab coalition, was clamorously anti-American and anti-Israel. It extended to the representative of the Palestine Liberation Organization extraordinary honors customarily accorded only to a chief of state.

Highly placed Americans questioned whether the United States should continue participating in the assembly and in fact, whether it should be encouraged to leave New York.

The United States has been, in fact, reviewing its attitudes toward the United Nations. Polls have turned up some public trends toward isolationism, although on the whole Americans seem to be heavily in favor of the United States retaining its membership. The incoming U.S. ambassador, Daniel P. Moynihan, is known to favor staying put, but at the same time dropping defensive or apologetic attitudes and fighting back.

There is talk now among the "Third World" of suspending Israel at the forthcoming 30th session, in the manner South Africa was suspended. Should that happen, the United States might seriously question its own participation — and without the United States, the United Nations would hardly be a world organization.

Derby News

This community was saddened to hear that former area resident Mrs. Chris Yoakum had passed away on Sunday in Grant Hospital. Chris, 32, was quite well-known and liked here.

My family knew her as a very warm, friendly and kind person, and we all shall miss her greatly. To husband Ned, daughter Angela, her father and sisters and to her in-laws Mr. and Mrs. Dayton Yoakum, the community offers its condolences.

Kenneth Mason "endured" a case of poison ivy the past week, but it is fast disappearing.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Meehan and son Michael, now of Florida, were here last week for the funeral of their sister-in-law, Mrs. Chris Yoakum. They were guests of the Dayton Yoakums.

Lyman Hunnicutt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hassell Hunnicutt, underwent a tonsillectomy in Children's Hospital on Friday. He came home on Saturday and feeling better.

The Derby Garden Club will meet on Monday June 30; Mrs. Joanne DeLay will give devotions. Hostesses will be Phyllis Kohli and Mrs. Lois Ruoff.

Miss Grace Minshall called on her cousin Mrs. Goldie Horton on Columbus on Sunday. Mrs. Horton has not been feeling well.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Cantaloupes Attract Fruit Flies

DEAR ABBY: I can't believe I am actually writing a Dear Abby letter, but I need to know how to solve a thorny problem.

I have an acquaintance of many years who teaches high school. He is male and unattached, and he spends his summers traveling around the country (and, indeed, the world), freeloading on his friends.

He writes to say he'll be in the neighborhood, and asks whether he may "visit" for a few days. Then he moves in and stays a week or longer if he can get away with it. He's wine and dined, and he never, never reciprocates. In fact, when he is out for dinner, he always finds an excuse to get deeply involved in conversation with someone else at the table that the check could lay there collecting moss before he'd pick it up.

He is on his way here, then he's visiting a mutual friend and after that, another mutual friend. They don't know his game, but I do. Should I wise them up? And how would you suggest I treat this man?

JUST WONDERING

DEAR JUST: Don't wise up anyone. And treat him like you'd treat any other freeloader. No one can take advantage of you without your cooperation.

DEAR ABBY: A girl signed "Grapenuts" wrote: "My mother said that for her 40th birthday she wants to have plastic surgery to have her 'grapes' enlarged to about grapefruit size, but Dad says he likes her 'dried raisins; they way they are.'"

Well, please inform "Grapenuts" to tell her mother that I have a couple of honeydews I'd gladly trade for her grapes. It's no joke toting around all this excess produce. All it attracts is fruit flies!

"FUTURE WATERMELONS"

DEAR FUTURE: My mail tells me that too much of a good thing can be every bit as agonizing as too little. The trade you offer isn't possible, but a competent plastic surgeon could whittle down your watermelons to Cantaloup-size.

DEAR ABBY: The "Saint" from St. Louis who declined to meet the topless dancer reminded me of an incident in my own life.

My late husband, a police detective, called one day to inform me that he was bringing a couple home for dinner. I found them to be charming, intelligent and good company.

After they left, my husband told me that she was a "madame" and he was a pimp! Some time later they were married. She quit her profession and so did he. Subsequently we became very good friends.

When my husband's illness was diagnosed as terminal, the former pimp was the only friend who offered to finance a trip to Mayo Clinic in the hope that it could save him.

I suggest that Mrs. Saint overcome her bias. She may find a fine friend in the topless dancer. Who are we to judge?

POLICEMAN'S WIDOW

DEAR WIDOW: Amen. Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope please.

Offshore Drilling Plans Defended

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — A leading environmentalist and a University of Oklahoma professor say oil and gas development of the Outer Continental Shelf may prove environmentally preferable to some alternative fuels.

Barbara M. Heller of the Environmental Policy Center in Washington, D.C., and Dr. Don Kash spoke today at the midyear meeting of the Interstate Oil Compact Commission.

"Compared with some alternatives — like oil shale and strip mining in the West — clearly, development of the Outer Continental Shelf is a viable alternative," Heller said.

Kash noted that coal liquefaction techniques may produce 20 times as much water pollutant residuals and 11 times as much air pollution residuals as offshore oil development.

"Properly conducted, increased development of offshore oil and gas is the most attractive short to middle term" answer to energy problems, Kash said.

DINNER FOR FOUR

Parmesan chicken, potatoes, green peas, salad, brandied fruit and beverage.

Parmesan Chicken

A friend of ours evolved this way of giving oven-fried chicken a crunchy coating — and no fat is used.

2-3rds cup herb-seasoned bread stuffing, from an 8-ounce bag

1/4 cup minced parsley

1/4 cup grated Parmesan cheese

2 1/2 to 3-pound broiler-fryer chicken, cut up

Water or milk

1/2 of a lemon

Crush stuffing slightly to make even-size crumbs; add parsley and Parmesan; mix well. Moisten chicken pieces with water, then roll in stuffing mixture to coat evenly. Place skin side up in a single layer in a shallow baking pan lined with foil. Bake without turning in a preheated 400-degree oven until tender — 50 to 60 minutes. Squeeze lemon juice over chicken and serve at once. Makes 4 servings.

Reserve Co. Pullout Eyed

SILVER BAY, Minn. (AP) — An attorney for Reserve Mining Co. says the Silver Bay firm probably will cease operations in Minnesota if the state rejects the Milepost 7 site for dumping taconite wastes.

Edward Fride, Duluth, spoke Monday at the opening of a state hearing on Reserve's application to dump waste ground rock at the site, also known as Lax Lake, about seven miles west of Silver Bay.

The 8th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals has ordered that Reserve stop using Lake Superior as the dumping ground for the ground rock, called tailings, and switch to a land site. Reserve now dumps up to 67,000 tons of the tailings into the lake daily.

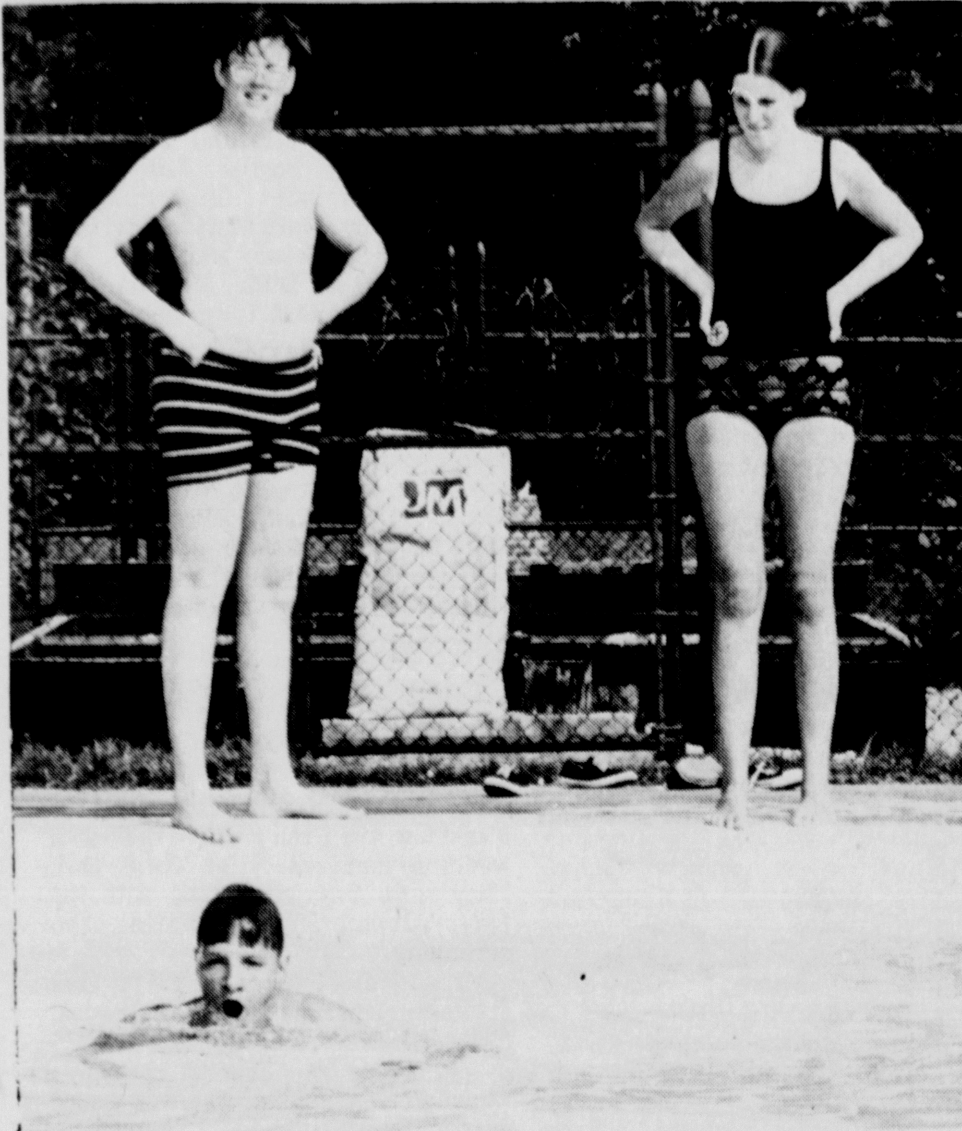

Frider said there are no sites remaining for on-land disposal, other than the Milepost 7 site, which the firm feels are possible.

The State of Minnesota earlier rejected a site at Palisade, 1 1/2 miles east of Silver Bay, because that area is desired for recreational purposes. He said it would have cost Reserve $186 million to set up a disposal site at Palisade.

Red Cross Sponsors Learn-To-Swim Classes

ANOTHER STATION—Mrs. Ruth Wilson, right, a licensed Water Safety Instructor, discusses the duties of teaching the human stroke to beginning swimmers with aide Kathy Fisher. Other stations in the program are back float, leg propulsion, arm propulsion, and proper methods of entering the water.

INTERMEDIATES—Klara Tammany, director of the Red Cross Swimming program at Ted Lewis Park pool, and aide Tom Farynowski, watch the progress of an intermediate level swimmer. The program offers instruction for beginners, advanced beginners, intermediate, swimmers, and life savers.

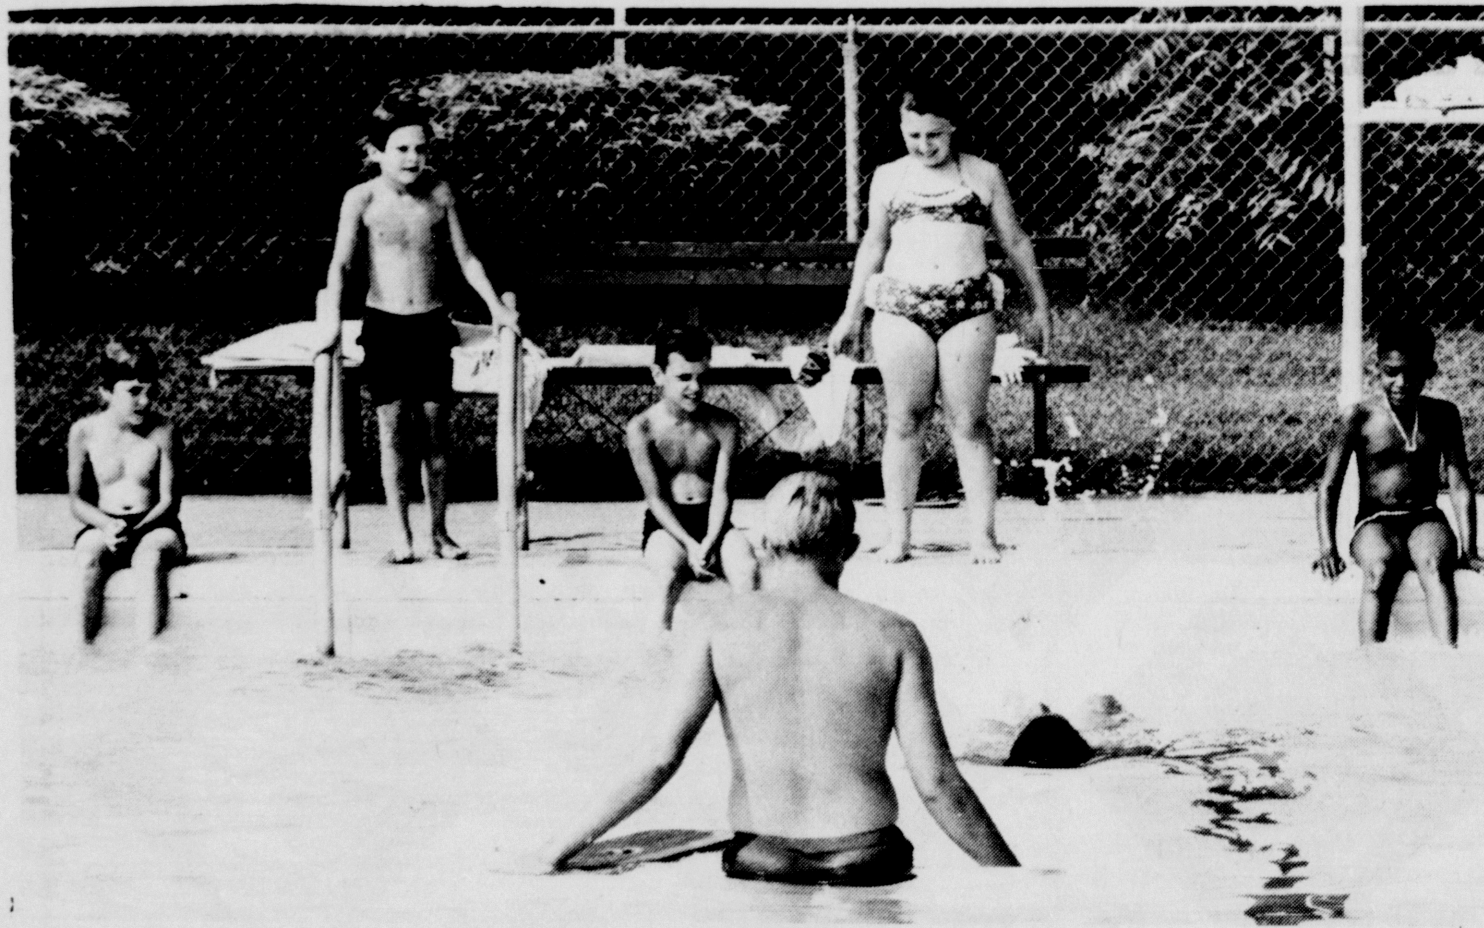

FLOATING—Jan Barnes, an aide with the swimming program, puts one of the beginning swimmers through his paces at the second station of the eight-station program. The student is completing requirements for the floating test, after first becoming acquainted with the physical and mental aspects of swimming.

ADVANCED BEGINNERS—Director Klara Tammany teaches advanced beginners proper water entry methods under the Red Cross swimming program. The first session will end Friday, but additional instruction will be given July 7-18, and July 21 to Aug. 1. Life saving classes are scheduled June 30 to July 18.

USE OF LEGS—Swimming aide Joe Bowers teaches beginning swimmers the importance of leg propulsion in swimming. Students learn how to kick and glide on their fronts and backs and how to flip in the water. They are tested by the aides before moving to a more advanced station.

Bill Revises Vet Laws

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Legislative action is virtually completed on a bill revising Ohio's veterinarian laws for the first time in 20 years—raising fees and making the state Veterinary Board financially solvent for the first time.

The Senate added its approval Tuesday to the enabling legislation, sponsored by Rep. Walter D. McClaskey, R-86 Marion, a veterinarian serving his second term in the House.

Sen. Gene Slagle, D-26 Galion, the Senate sponsor, said the bill increases fees for initial licenses from $35 to $100 a year, while hiking those for renewals from $10 to $25. It also establishes a category of "animal technicians" and permits them to work under licensed veterinarians after obtaining a $10 license.

Slagle also said the measure, which returns to the House for consideration of minor Senate changes, requires for the first time that veterinarians must have 10 hours a year in continuing education or renew their licenses.

The legislation was requested by veterinarians and had no opposition. "We're giving them what they wanted," Slagle said.

Gun Findings Released

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Owning a gun for nonporting uses provides only the illusion of protection whether in the street, in one's business or in one's home, says a study by a private criminal research center here.

The Administration of Justice Committee of the Governmental Institute says its findings undermine the conventional wisdom that guns are an effective defensive tool.

"During 1974, Cuyahoga County residents shot and killed one alleged burglar with a gun kept in a home," the committee said. It added that 16 persons were killed accidentally with guns kept at home "and 114 persons were purposefully shot to death in a home—four allegedly by burglars, 110 by relatives, friends and acquaintances."

"Thus a loaded gun in the home was 16 times more likely to accidentally kill an occupant of the home than to be used to kill an intruder," the committee reasoned.

The committee added that a gun in the home is far more likely to bring tragedy than to provide protection.

Murder Case Now 21 Years Old

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP)—Back in 1954, attorney Mark M. Hennelly took on a murder case. Twenty-one years later, it is one of the longest uninterrupted court battles in the history of American criminal law.

Hennelly now is 59 and no longer in criminal law, except to defend J.W. "Slick" Stidham, a life term inmate of the state penitentiary, who is nearing 50. When Hennelly accepted the case, Stidham was a 28-year-old convict serving 25 years for armed robbery.

Then, in September 1954, there was a riot at the prison. During it, inmate Walter Lee Donnell, who had testified against a St. Louis armed robbery gang, was slain.

After the riot, confessions were obtained from Stidham and six other inmates in the Donnell murder. In court, the men said they were tortured into confessing. Their requests for lie detector tests were denied.

Hennelly was asked to take the case by the Rev. Charles Dismas Clark, the so-called "Hoodlum Priest" of St. Louis. Father Clark died in 1963.

"It was never any secret that I tried all of Father Clark's cases for him," Hennelly recalled in a recent interview. "He told me that he had seven boys in Jefferson City who were being railroaded for a murder that occurred during the riot down there. Clark said the state was going to ask for the death penalty in these cases, and asked me to defend them."

Hennelly accepted. "Originally, I defended all seven, but other St. Louis lawyers offered their services, so I took the Stidham case, because they considered him the ringleader."

He said he still strongly believes that Stidham was convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment for a murder he did not commit. In that belief, Hennelly has continued his defense of Stidham on appeal twice to the U.S. Supreme Court, twice to the 8th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, three times to the Missouri Supreme Court and every court in between. He has borne the entire cost out of his own pocket.

A fellow attorney estimates that $150,000 would be a conservative estimate of what Hennelly has invested in the case, now on appeal in U.S. District Court here.

When Hennelly argued Stidham's case before the U.S. Supreme Court in October 1972, he was executive vice president of the $1.5 billion Mississippi River Corp. The justices were curious why he continued to argue the case for a penniless convict.

Hennelly replied: "This case is like a fingernail on a blackboard with me—as it should be with any lawyer. As long as I believe that a man's in prison for something he didn't do, I can't rest."

License Fee Measure Given Push

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Senate Ways and Means Committee recommended Monday passage of a bill that changes procedures used to set fees for occupational and professional licenses.

The bill, sponsored by Sen. Robert E. O'Shaughnessy, D-15 Columbus, provides that licensing agencies would submit their proposals to the state Controlling Board for its consideration.

Presently, the agencies must come before the legislature and justify increases to members of the Senate and House finance committees and then await legislative enactment.

O'Shaughnessy pointed out that the agencies which issue licenses operate exclusively on their own revenues. He said the legislation would have no effect on the state's general fund but would retain legislative control. The seven-member controlling board consists of six legislators and one representative of the administration.

Also recommended for approval by the Senate panel, without dissent, was a bill by Rep. Don S. Maddux, D-90 Lancaster, conforming Ohio statutes to the Professional Engineers' Registration Act.

Canoe Journey Proves Less Than Restful

PRUITT, Ark. (AP) — If you have been tempted to take a "float" trip by canoe down one of the nation's wild rivers, be warned. The name does not fit the game.

The canoe floats: you paddle. In whitewater you paddle frantically to stay afloat. In the pools you paddle because you cannot control the canoe unless it is moving faster than the water.

Sometimes you paddle with your hands to catch up with the paddle after the canoe has dumped you into swift, icy water.

The son-in-law organized our "paddle" trip. The son-in-law is 25, slim and in superb condition. In the bow of his canoe was his wife, who is 23, somewhat less slim but also in superb condition.

Manning the other canoe: the fat, 47-year-old father-in-law, who gets winded brushing his teeth, and his wife, who is 41, something more than slim, and who never did anything more strenuous than housework before the son-in-law began organizing adventure trips.

Canoeing is one of America's fastest growing sports. On a given weekend, more than 500 canoes, each with a crew of two, will travel the 25-mile stretch of the Buffalo from Ponca to Pruitt. A few of the more daring will start six miles farther upstream at Boxley.

Ohio Jobless Rate Declines During May

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Unemployment in Ohio fell to 8.3 per cent during May, the Ohio Bureau of Employment Services said today.

The bureau said unemployment in the state was at 449,000 in March, then declined in April and again in May to 402,000.

Manufacturing industries, where jobs had been dropping for seven months, reported slight gains in May, reaching a total of 1,261,000 jobs.

Payroll employment in non-manufacturing industries recorded an alltime high of 1,840,000 during the month, the bureau reported. "Despite the general recession, employment in these industries has been rising steadily," it said.

Jobs in the coal mining industry, bureau said, jumped by nearly one-fifth from May 1974 to May 1975. Mining jobs now total around 15,000, twice the level a year ago.

Coal miners have been working overtime, grossing an average $328 per week, the bureau reported. It said their earnings were exceeded only by construction workers, who grossed $335 a week during May.

Unemployment claims were down about 30,000 during the month. The total under all state and federal programs averaged around 282,000.

The son-in-law, a most persuasive person, wanted to go the whole route.

The father-in-law since has been advised by a canoeing expert that the Boxley-to-Ponca run is "very dangerous for beginners."

The way the expert put it: "You had no business on that part of the river. Your wife shouldn't have been within five miles of it."

Such belated advice was a source of pride to the novice. He had survived that run, albeit with bruises and abrasions which are a natural consequence of spills, or "dumps" as veteran canoeists call them, into swift water running over rocks.

Proof of how quickly paddling skills can be learned when your life depends on it is in the statistics. Three dumps in the first six miles. Only three more in the remaining 25.

Not once did the youngsters go involuntarily into the water.

Oh, they spent a lot of time there.

Each time the beginners dumped, they had to swim after paddles, assorted gear and the watermelon, which sped away in the current each time the canoe went down.

A watermelon is excellently equipped for paddle trips. It has no knees or elbows to crack against rocks as it is swept along. Knees and elbows you should leave at home.

The wife, who left skin from knees, elbows and other parts of the anatomy on Buffalo River rocks, came up with a formula for other wives to have the joys of canoeing without leaving home.

The ingredients: two smooth river rocks, a tubful of ice water, a rope and the family car.

The process: Husband beats wife with rocks for 15 minutes, then throws her into tub, holding her under until she is at point of drowning. Remove wife from tub, tie to car and drag for at least two blocks.

Instant canoe trip.

But the idea here is not to deter you from yielding to the originally stated temptation. The message is that you can make it, even if you are middle-aged and out of shape.

The paddling art you learn quickly in self-defense. Wet clothing dries quickly in the sunshine. Bruises heal after a week or two.

Memories remain: The silence of gliding through leafy tunnels where willows and beeches and oaks lean over the river.

The splash of fish jumping in the pools.

The majesty of bluffs towering 200 and 300 feet overhead.

The quickening of the pulse when you hear a roar and know whitewater is just around the next bend.

And finally, the traditional cry of the canoeist echoing from the bluffs, shattering nature's primordial silence: "Shut up and paddle."

Rhodes Vetoes Bill To Aid Democrats

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. James A. Rhodes has vetoed a bill that would have extended civil service status to certain holdover employees of the Gilligan administration without requiring them to pass examinations.

The veto Tuesday was the first to be applied to an entire bill since Rhodes succeeded former Democratic Gov. John J. Gilligan last Jan. 13.

He called the measure, passed by majority Democrats in both houses of the legislature, "a blatant attempt to give a small group of state employees the protection of certified civil service with no regard to their qualifications for the positions they occupy."

Rhodes singled out specifically about 40 employees of the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio, which remains under Democratic control, and said they were hired out of other agencies "at a time when the commission needed accountants and engineers to alleviate long delays in the hearing of cases."

The bill was drafted to include about 900 employees of state university libraries, and they included the bulk of those affected by the legislation.

In his veto message, Rhodes mentioned the library personnel only in passing. He pointed out that Democrats, besides the PUCO, also sought to protect employees scattered through the state Lottery Commission, the Industrial Commission, and the Department of Industrial Relations.

David C. Sweet, one of two Democrats serving on the PUCO, denied Rhodes' charge that the move was designed to protect Democrats and said he will urge Democratic legislative leaders to try to override the veto.

"I'm greatly disappointed," said Sweet of the governor's action, adding "it will just make it more difficult for us to employ and retain professional people. They don't want to be subjected to the whims of politicians."

Sweet, director of development under Gilligan, also denied that the employees at the PUCO were not qualified. "If he (Rhodes) would examine the record, he would find out that just isn't true," he said.

Rhodes said a "review" of the employees who would be protected by the Democratic legislation "indicates that many of those receiving the special benefit provided by the bill would probably not hold their present positions if required to take competitive examinations."

Jehovah's Witnesses Open Convention

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — An estimated 80,000 Jehovah's Witnesses will be told here this week that although 1975 may not be the end of the world, it's close to the end of Satan's reign.

About 80,000 Jehovah's Witnesses from Ohio, eastern Michigan and western Pennsylvania open a four-day regional convention Thursday in what amounts to something of a homecoming to an area that has figured prominently in the religious organization's development.

The Witnesses also are to hear Maxwell Friend, a member of the religious organization's headquarters staff in New York, warn that none should be saying 1975 will be the end of the world.

Slot Machine Bill Changed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohioans have the right to keep slot machines in their homes as collectors' items without being in violation of state gambling laws, the Senate asserted Tuesday.

It rejected, by a vote of 13-20, a joint conference committee report that contained a House provision to outlaw the devices altogether. The action probably will send the measure to a new conference committee for further consideration.

The main thrust of the legislation, by Rep. Ronald H. Weyandt, D-43 Akron, is to crack down on "Las Vegas" style gambling operations, particularly in the Summit County area where there have proliferated under the guise of charitable, nonprofit operations.

Sen. Donald E. "Buz" Lukens, R-4 Middletown, and others said they were in complete agreement with the purpose of the bill. But Lukens added he believes the slot machine ban would place hundreds of innocent collectors around the state "in a position of legal jeopardy." The bill retains the current ban against their use.

Teens To See Space Spectacle

CAREFREE, Ariz. (AP) — Two teen-agers who have been told that their cancers are in remission will be guests at Cape Canaveral for the July 15 launch of the U.S. craft for the Apollo-Soyuz space mission.

Kevin Steen and Steve Southerland share the bond of those who have faced death with a fierce will to live. Both 15 year olds have known the elation of cautious predictions that their cancers are in remission and they can hope to live — at least for awhile.

Kevin, who says "everybody gave me up but God," was host at his family's desert home in central Arizona to Steve, traveling cross country from Miami, Fla., with his parents.

Lean and tanned from the desert sun, the 5-foot-10 Kevin looks more like the basketball player he aspires to be than a victim of a glandular cancer described by doctors as inevitably terminal.

Steve, huskier and 10 pounds heavier at 145, underwent surgery in March 1974 to remove all but three inches of his left leg to stop the spread of a malignant bone tumor similar to that which cost the right leg of young Ted Kennedy, son of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass.

Campus Notes

Mark S. Downing, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Downing, received an award recently for his work with the Criminal Law Clinic and with "Discovery" magazine, student law publication. Downing has completed all the class requirements for the doctor of jurisprudence degree at the University of Toledo Law School.

Attorney General William Brown was the principal speaker at the June 13 pre-commencement exercises at the university.

"I've had letters and phone calls from Ted Jr.," said Steve. "He really keeps track of me and he certainly understands the problem."

Steve said his cancer has been in remission for one year — "If I can go four more, the doctors will consider me cured."

Steve lost a 4-year-old brother, Jeffery, to leukemia. Another brother, Mike, 10, has a rare type nerve cancer from which he appears to be recovering.

Kevin's parents were advised in May of 1970 that Kevin had no more than three months to live.

"He had had cumulative doses totaling 160 milligrams of a powerful drug called Oncovin and doctors said no one had ever survived a quantity of more than 26 milligrams," said his father, Orion.

Instead of waiting for death, Kevin became keenly interested in the Apollo 17 moon shot. He developed a friendship with astronaut Donald K. Slayton, who was denied space flight because of a heart murmur but who is now scheduled to take part in next month's U.S.-Soviet joint space mission.

Kevin's plea to see a splashdown before he died reached the White House and former President Richard M. Nixon helped arrange his attendance when Apollo 17 dropped into the Pacific near Pago Pago in December 1971.

Joining Kevin and Steve at the launch will be another 15-year-old, Jimmy Craig of Rockledge, Fla., who also lost a leg to cancer.

Ag Scientists Eye Solar Energy

WOOSTER, Ohio (AP) — The research scientists at the Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center in Wooster are trying to marry a farm pond and a greenhouse.

This unlikely marriage, they hope, will produce worthwhile savings in scarce energy.

They have completed building a 28 by 60-foot pond early last month and filled it after a salt company donated 100 tons of pure salt.

Water in the lower six feet of the water carries a salt level of 20 per cent. Salt in the upper six feet of water ranges from 20 per cent at six feet to zero at the surface.

The salt gradient halts convection, the transmission of heat, and the upper six feet of water form an insulating layer to reduce heat loss.

A double-layer, polyethylenetype greenhouse will be built over the pond to serve as a solar collector.

Ted Short, project chief, said he is designing the wall of the greenhouse facing the north sides of the pond with an inexpensive reflective surface, probably an aluminized curtain.

Short said the curtain will reflect more sunshine into the water. When the sun angle is low and solar energy is being reflected off the pond surface, the shiny curtain will reflect it back into the pond. Short sees a potential 50 per cent increase in solar collection efficiency with a reflective north wall.

Construction is under way on a two-section greenhouse with overall dimensions of 37 by 100 feet.

One section of the greenhouse will be heated in the conventional manner, using natural gas burners. The other section will be heated by energy from the pond.

Short said the greenhouse heating installation, being funded by the newly formed U.S. Energy Research and Development Administration, will collect heat during the summer. By late September, temperatures at the pond's bottom are expected to be near the boiling point.

Short said one of two heat transfer units he is designing will be lowered to the bottom of the pond and a second submerged in the upper layer of water for heat pickup on days when the radiant energy level is high.

Insulated pipes will circulate heated fresh water in the closed transfer system to heat the greenhouse during the cold weather.

Greenhouses are excellent collectors of solar energy, but they lose heat as fast at night as they gain it during the hours of sunlight. Short will try mechanized systems of pulling insulated blankets at night to reduce heat loss.

Kettering Policeman Apparently Drowns

LAKEVIEW, Ohio (AP) — A Kettering policeman apparently drowned Monday after falling off water skis at Indian Lake, park patrol officers said. He was identified as Stephen Garrett.

Officers said passersby helped get him into their boat after friends in the boat towing him were unable to lift the body. He was dead on arrival at Mary Rutan Hospital in Bellefontaine.

'Tent City' Being Levelled As Refugees Gain Shelters

AGANA, Guam (AP) — "Tent City," the first home on American territory for more than 90,000 Vietnamese refugees, is being pulled down.

The temporary shelter's last 3,800 residents were moved to permanent buildings elsewhere on the Pacific Island after a tropical downpour drenched the camp on Tuesday.

There are still more than 15,000 refugees on Guam, including 1,200 who have asked to return to their homeland.

Fearing Tent City would be flattened by a typhoon, officials became anxious to shut down the camp when the storm season began in May. After Tuesday's rain, the last residents of Tent City were moved out.

Seabees began folding 50,000 cots and dismantling 3,200 tents today. A Navy spokesman said it will take about a week to dismantle the compound.

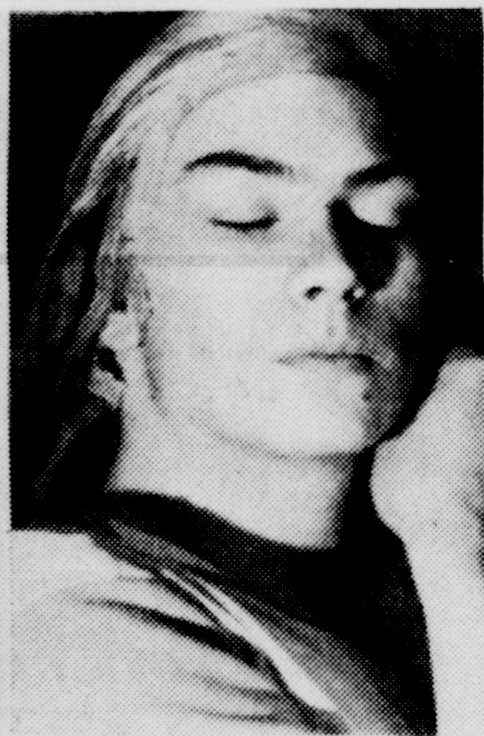

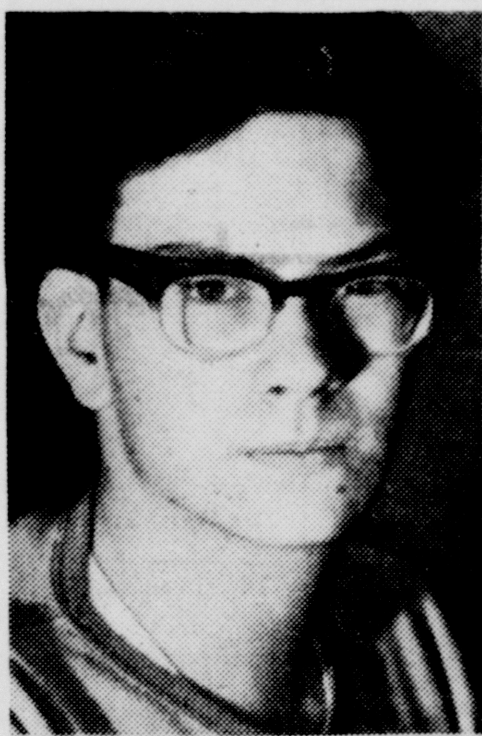

The 540 Army troops who ran Tent

City have started packing their gear to return to Hawaii, though they must compete with refugees for space on outbound flights.

Tent City held as many as 40,000 residents at a time during its 66 days of operation, making it the largest city on Guam. It once boasted two newspapers, a bank, daily church services, a Navy exchange, a fleet of hot dog stands, eight dining halls, five outdoor theaters and its own Zip Code.

The first refugees arrived April 25 as Seabees toiled around the clock to keep ahead of the influx, the largest wave of humanity to hit Guam since U.S. marines and soldiers stormed ashore in 1944.

Many of those who are still on Guam will be housed at the abandoned hospital compound at Asan Point, which has room for as many as 10,000 refugees in old barracks. Shelter for another 4,000 is available at Andersen Air Force Base.

Senior Citizens Visit Girl Scouts At Camp

GATHER 'ROUND—Girl Scouts at the 1975 Day Camp at Camp Miska gather around Twyla Lorentz and other members of the Pickaway Senior Citizens Center for after-

Camp Miska, Pickaway County's Girl Scout Camp, was the scene of much laughter and singing and mingling of young and old, as the Girl Scouts entertained the Pickaway Senior Center members Tuesday. The bus arrived at the Day Camp with the Seniors about 10:30 a.m.

The flag raising ceremony was in charge of the Miska Menaces. After the American flag and the Camp Miska flag were in place, all joined in the Pledge of Allegiance and the girls read the words of the Battle Hymn of the Republic.

Katie Wamsley, camp director, welcomed everyone and announced awards of thanks to the Church of Christ in Christian Union for the use of one of their buses the week before, to the Junior Women's Club for the gift of a large dinner bell to be rung only for emergencies, and to the Borden Burger staff for contributions of orange drink, milk, and with refrigeration help.

Before lunch, the older group visited the various camp sites and admired the hand crafted articles the girls had made. Each visitor was then presented with one or more handmade souvenirs lunch singing. The Senior Citizens visited the Scouts at the camp Tuesday for a day of activities.

The lunch menu consisted of relish trays, hotdog sandwiches, baked beans, spaghetti, all prepared by the girls, and cookies and fruit brought by the senior citizens. A table grace was sung by everyone.

During the afternoon, each camp group presented some entertainment. The Skunks, led by Donnie Dever and Mary Russell, sang an action song entitled: "Three Chartreuse Buzards". The Robins, led by Mary Ebbrecht and Jane Davis sang "His Banner over me is Love."

The group led by Marsha Horch and Candy Commeans were called the Butterflies. They demonstrated how butterflies are always caterpillars first by making a 20 legged caterpillar. They also sang, "Do your Ears Hang Low," "The Bumblebee Song" and did various stunts with string.

A name song which involved nearly everyone there was sung by the Lady Bugs whose leaders were Carolyn Hawkins, Claudette Hershey and Janet Jackson.

The Miska Menaces concluded the girls program by singing, "Green Grow the Rushes," doing a Hokie

Urge Quick Action On Malpractice Bill

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The chairman of the House insurance committee urged the Senate Tuesday to act quickly on a bill rewriting Ohio's medical malpractice law.

Rep. William E. Hinig, D-96 New Philadelphia, made the plea. He is chairman of the House Insurance, Utilities and Financial Institutions Committee and the sponsor of a bill which cleared the House by an overwhelming vote last week.

"It's important that we act with haste," Hinig told the Senate Elections, Financial Institutions and Insurance Committee, which is now considering the bill. "I would urge your speedy consideration."

The malpractice bill was assigned to subcommittee Tuesday, and committee Chairman Tony P. Hall, D-6 Dayton, promised quick hearings on the measure.

The bill passed the House last week 92-2. It is designed to assure doctors and hospitals of malpractice protection in the face of skyrocketing insurance premiums.

It establishes a joint underwriting pool, establishes new standards for training doctors and limits the amounts disgruntled patients can recover for pain and suffering.

Hinig said the bill is not drafted just for the doctors' benefit.

"This is not a special interest bill," Hinig said. "Any time a party is aided by this bill, some other section of the bill imposes a more severe responsibility."

The bill also was endorsed by state Insurance Director Harry V. Jump, who drafted an earlier version of the bill.

Jump, a former legislator, said the malpractice situation is a true crisis. "Words of such a serious nature are difficult for me," Jump said.

"Yet, I have found the medical malpractice situation to be one of truly critical proportions, one that desperately needs a comprehensive legislative solution now," he said.

"Ohio citizens will soon be faced with partial or total interruptions in medical services," he said. "Even if people are fortunate enough to receive uninterrupted care, they will pay significantly higher fees due to the increased costs of insurance and defensive medicine."

"The proposals now before this committee are for the benefit of the general public, not special interest groups," he said.

CHEESE HISTORY IS COLORFUL

Cheese is one of the first foods used by man. People have been making cheese since the time goats, sheep and cattle were domesticated and their milk was used for food.

The Greeks trained their athletes on cheese and used it in wedding cakes. Julius Caesar used cheese to feed the Roman armies.

There are more than 1,000 different kinds of cheese. Most of these are variations of about 10 to 15 basic types of cheese. Certain regions have become famous for their cheese such as Roquefort Cheese made in France and Cheddar Cheese made in Great Britain.

One of the most popular American Cheeses is Colby Longhorn Cheese. This cheese was first made in Colby, Wisconsin. Longhorn describes the type of mold the cheese is put into for shaping. The cylindrical shape of the mold resembles a "long horn".

Cheese contains many of the nutrients of milk in a concentrated form. It is an excellent source of protein and calcium.

Cheese can be used in many economical recipes. In this recipe, cheese is combined with potatoes to make an unusual side dish.

CHEESY POTATOES

6 Medium Potatoes
1/4 Cup Butter Or Margarine
1 Cup (4 oz.) Colby Cheese
1 1/2 Cups Sour Cream

1/2 Cup Chopped Onion
1 Tsp. Salt
Dash Of Pepper
Paprika

Cook potatoes with skins on. Cool. Peel and grate. Place in buttered 1 1/2 quart casserole. Melt butter. Add grated cheese. Stir until blended. Add sour cream, onion, salt and pepper. Fold together. Pour over potatoes. Blend carefully. Sprinkle with paprika. Bake in the oven at 350 deg. F. for 30 minutes. This will make four to six servings.

Top Trotters Set For SD Challenge

The nation's most promising 2-year-old trotters, twenty seven in number, move into Scioto Downs Thursday night for the $22,710 Challenge Stakes. The box-crushing entry forced the race into two divisions, thirteen in the first division racing for a purse of $11,205, and fourteen in the second division going for a purse of $11,505.

As usual the second division is the tougher of the two divisions, although Scioto's Director of Racing, Herman Brickel said, "either division could go as a feature race at any track".

In that second division, the nation's leading money driver, Billy Haughton has the slight early choice in Quick Pay, a son of Star's Pride who set the national season mark of 2:06 at Lexington, Kentucky, then came back last week and won the Pennsylvania Sires Stakes at The Meadows in the 2:07 1-5. The second half of the Haughton entry in the second division is Keystone Burch, a winner in 2:08 3-5 at The Meadows. Challenging the Haughton entry is Rick Midden with Toby Hill who qualified in 2:09 1-5, and Gene Riegle with another Star's Pride offspring, Aladdin Hill, a two-time winner of the "baby races" at Scioto.

Howard Beissinger has a stable entry in Somer's Tempest and Darby's Dream.

In the first division, Billy Haughton holds a slim edge with Victor Hill, a son of Hickory Pride who won his division of the Pennsylvania Sires Stakes last week in 2:08 4-5, and Gene Riegle has the grand-gaunted son of B. F. Coalton, Match Hill who won the Tompkins Memorial Stakes last week at Hazel Park over a sloppy track.

Terry Holton has another promising B. F. Coalton filly in Solo Hill, and Joe O'Brien has a solid contender in Big Sur. Jimmy Arthur has August Pride, a winner in 2:08 4-5 at Scioto, and young John Simpson, Jr., has Lavant Hanover.

Sex Bias In Sports Under Fire

WASHINGTON (AP) — Enforcement to eliminate discrimination against women in the nation's colleges and universities won't come until new federal regulations are implemented, a representative of the National Organization for Women says.

Casey Hughes, director of NOW's legislative office, told a House Education subcommittee Tuesday that there are many myths about women which need to be abolished.

"Perhaps there are people who believe that all American girls are named Cinderella and that Prince Charming will be along as soon as she leaves school at whatever level to take care of this delicate, frail creature for the rest of her life," said Ms. Hughes.

"Perhaps there are those who believe that a young American woman does not need a strong body or a strong education to help make her independent, because the prince will be there to take care of her."

Ms. Hughes told the House post-secondary education subcommittee, which continues its review of the regulations today, that the myth needs to be compared with reality to obtain a true picture.

The panel is reviewing regulations approved May 27 by President Ford. They will take effect July 21 unless Congress rejects them.

Tribe Beats Red Sox; Win Tilt 8-6

BOSTON (AP) — Frank Robinson has had some unpleasant times in his first season as manager of the Cleveland Indians, but there are signs things are finally falling into place.

"That's what I've been looking for all year — somebody picking up somebody else — and this was the first time," Robinson said Tuesday night after the Indians rallied for an 8-6 victory over the Boston Red Sox.

The Indians posted their third consecutive victory, after losing 12 of 13 games, with a ninth inning rally featured by Boog Powell's run-scoring pinch double and George Hendrick's three-run homer with two out.

"The way we hung in there and didn't quit made me feel good," Robinson said. "I would have been happy even if we had lost by one run. We kept hustling and things didn't look too good after our guy (Duane Kuiper) was thrown out at the plate on Powell's hit. Then we pulled it out."

Hendrick, a right-handed slugger, hit his 13th homer off Boston starter Bill Lee in the first inning. The ball went to the opposite field, into the Cleveland bullpen in right.

Then, with the Red Sox just one out away from victory, Hendrick drilled a 1-1 pitch by reliever Dick Drago down the right field line. The ball curved around the foul pole, 309 feet from the plate, and landed five rows into the stands.

South Coach Blasts All-Star No Shows

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Big time college powers who tell their recruits not to play in high school all-star games have come under a scathing attack by John Behling, the South coach for the Ohio All-Star contest.

Behling noted that six of his original selections had been ordered by their future colleges not to play in the game. Three of the South stars are headed for Duke and the other trio for Notre Dame.

"The players told me that the schools advised them against playing," said Behling.

"Maybe I shouldn't speak my mind on this, but I think that's wrong. This is an honor for the players selected. They should be given the go-ahead to play," he continued.

The six original all-stars, all from Cincinnati area high schools, shook up Behling's Rebels when they opened practice at Ohio State.

Since then, the South's roster has stabilized for the game Saturday afternoon against the North in Ohio Stadium.

Behling scoffed at the contention from some colleges that they do not want to risk injury to their prize recruits.

"Coach (Woody) Hayes and his Ohio State staff have been some of this game's biggest boosters. We appreciate that," said Behling.

"Sure, you could get hurt here. But you can get hurt in a car or anywhere else too. The players have earned a chance to play here," he said.

Behling, who led New Philadelphia into the Class AAA state playoffs last fall, admitted the Cincinnati players had already appeared in an all-star contest in that area.

"They were probably tired," conceded Behling. "But there should be more depth of commitment."

Meanwhile, Behling and his North coaching counterpart Ed Glass, announced their offensive starters for the game.

The South starters will be: Ends Ted Metcalf, New Philadelphia, and Rich Morrison, Lima Bath; tackles Tim Burke, Wapakoneta, and Dan Rice, Cincinnati Elder; guards Dale Keitz, Upper Arlington, and Scott Bowman, Circleville; center Matt Callan, Cincinnati Harrison; quarterback Scott Arnett, Columbus Walnut Ridge, or Dave Abrams, Troy; halfbacks Jeff Feight, Kettering Fairmont West, and Greg Searcy, Cincinnati Wyoming, and fullback Phil Tedrick, New Philadelphia.

The North offensive starters will be: Ends Ruben Floyd, Canton McKinley, and Jackie Hudson, Warren Harding; tackles Ray Amos, Warren Harding, and Byron Cato, Lorain King; guards John Schramm, Findlay, and Bob Gollic, Cleveland St. Joseph; center Joe Studer, Massillon; quarterback Ron Calcagni, Youngstown Chaney; halfbacks John Ziegler, Warren Harding, and Jonathan Moore, Canton McKinley, and fullback John McCarty, Norwalk.

Liberty Union Lions used five pitchers, they fanned five and walked six.

Randy Pontius led the LE hitters, slamming two home runs and a single in three trips to the plate. Chuck Cave also homered for the Braves, Crist aided his own cause with a triple, Tim Fouch hit two singles and Steve Rawlins one.

Tonight the Braves host Pickerington and Saturday marks the beginning of the Mid State League tournament.

The meet is scheduled to start at 5:30 p.m. "I'd like to see a good crowd on hand for this meet. Those people who have never seen a swim meet could be in for an evening of real sports entertainment," Said Shea.

Reds Blank Braves

ATLANTA (AP) — Sparky Anderson will leave the rating to someone else, so long as Cincinnati second baseman Joe Morgan is somewhere in the top five.

"When you consider everything from base stealing and bases on balls to hitting and everything, he's been the No. 1 offensive player in baseball for the last two years," said Anderson, the Reds manager.

Morgan provided all the offense needed Tuesday night when he smashed a three-run home run in the third inning, his 10th this season, to give the streaking Reds a 3-0 victory over the Atlanta Braves.

It was Cincinnati's 10th victory in 13 games.

Anderson said it appears that Morgan will even surpass his output of the last two seasons.

"Up to this point," Anderson said, "I've never seen any player play any better than he's played this year. He's also a good defensive player."

Anderson said he didn't believe Morgan had had more than 12 errors in any season, even though "he gets to balls and sometimes is charged with errors when other players wouldn't even get to the ball."

"I put Morgan up in the top five in all of baseball, and let anybody else rate him," Anderson said.

Morgan's homer came off a fastball from Phil Niekro, a knuckleball specialist. It followed walks to Bill Plummer and Pete Rose.

"I didn't think he would throw me a pitch I could hit with a 3-1 count," said Morgan. "I thought he would throw me a screwball or something. I certainly didn't think he would throw me his fastball. I guess if I had been thinking, he might have gotten me out."

The blow gave Pat Darcy his second victory in six decisions. He got relief help from Fred Norman and Pedro Borbon. The Braves had baserunners in every inning except the fifth, but the threats were thwarted four times by double plays.

Anderson, an enthusiastic individual, has heaped plenty of praise on his powerhouse teams during the past few years.

He was in another one of those moods Tuesday night.

"Where can you find another team in baseball with five players like Morgan, Rose, Tony Perez, Johnny Bench and Dave Concepcion?" he asked.

"But, we're like everybody else, we have our streaks, too."

Unfortunately for the National League West opponents, the Reds are on a streak now — a winning streak.

Heath And Strange Lead Eastern Victory

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Skeeter Heath of East Tennessee State teamed with defending champion Curtis Strange of Wake Forrest Tuesday to lead the East to a 12½-5½ decision over the West in the National Collegiate Athletic Association Golf Championship.

Heath and Strange defeated Craig Stadler of Southern California and Jaime Gonzalez of Oklahoma State 2 and 1.

Court Sentences Six, Releases Two Others On Shock Probation

Judge William Ammer sentenced six persons this morning in Pickaway County Common Pleas Court and released two others from prison terms under the provisions of shock probation.

Rex Allen Taylor, Harrisburg, appeared for sentencing on charges of receiving stolen property and aggravated burglary. Judge Ammer sentenced him to a term of 1-5 years at the Mansfield Reformatory for Men on the first charge and a term of 4-25 years on the second.

The court then suspended both sentences and placed Taylor on probation for three years. Taylor has been in jail for the past month and a half. He was also ordered to make restitution.

Two Washington C.H. men charged with breaking and entering also had their sentences suspended during the morning session of court. William Owen Queen and Raymond Stewart were originally sentenced to a term each of six months to five years at the Mansfield Reformatory. The court after suspending the sentences, placed both men on probation for three years and fined Queen $20.

A six-month jail sentence was suspended in the case involving Freddie Lee Spriggs, 135 Gale Court. Spriggs was charged with a count of misdemeanor theft. He was placed on probation for 18 months.

Motions for shock probation were granted to Lloyd Artis Jr. and Ronald Keith St. Clair. Artis was originally charged and sentenced for burglary. St. Clair was sentenced on two counts of theft. Both men have been incarcerated since April.

Mary Kathryn Brons, Circleville, appeared on a charge of passing bad checks. Judge Ammer suspended a six months to five years sentence to the Marysville Reformatory for Women and placed Ms. Brons on probation for 18 months.

A final appearance for the day was made by Pearl William Sutton, New Holland. He was charged with three counts of forgery and sentenced to three concurrent terms of six months to five years each. The court suspended the prison terms and placed Sutton on probation for three years.

Circleville-Pickaway Corp. Acquires A&P Building

PROPERTY PURCHASED—The empty A & P building on Island Road has been acquired by Circleville-Pickaway Corporation, a group of local investors. The grocery company ceased its operation there recently even though it still had six months remaining on its lease.

On June 20 the Circleville-Pickaway Corporation became the owner of the A&P building at 117 Island Road in Circleville.

The property includes a brick building containing about 12,000 square feet and approximately 3.2 acres of land. Recently the A&P closed their operation of this building as a grocery store. The Circleville-Pickaway Corporation is exploring other possible uses for the building, while at the same time talking with grocery people who have shown an interest in leasing it for the grocery business.

The Circleville-Pickaway Corporation was formed by a group of local citizens about ten years ago for the purpose of investing in local projects for the mutual benefit of the community and the stockholders. Five years ago land was purchased on Clark Drive and a modern 60-bed health care facility known as Pickaway Manor was erected and has been in operation for the past four and one half years.

Several projects have been examined by the corporation during the past few years, and it was felt that the purchase of this property on Island Road would lend itself to the aims and purposes of the corporation and also

Crash Claims Bishop, Pro Cager

NEW YORK (AP) — An Episcopal Bishop, a new York Nets basketball player and one of New Orleans' most prominent businessmen were among the passengers on the jetliner which crashed in flames near Kennedy International Airport.

Their fate was still unknown early today. Authorities said 110 persons died; 14 survivors were hospitalized. Three of the survivors, all men, were not identified. The three prominent passengers were not listed among the 11 identified survivors of Tuesday's crash.

Nineteen Norwegian merchant seamen were aboard the ill-fated flight from New Orleans to New York. At

Bids To Be Opened On State Projects

The Highway Division of the Ohio Department of Transportation will open bids July 22, for the remaining six 1975 Ohio projects under part two of the Pavement Marking Demonstration Program, 100 per cent federally funded under the 1973 Federal-Aid Highway Act.

The marking project includes three intersections in Pickaway County: Route 56 and Route 159, US 23 and Du Pont Road, and Route 56 and the Darbyville-Williamsport Road.

Total programmed estimate for the projects, including material, application and engineering costs, is $397,000, for applying thermoplastic stopbars, channelizing, lane and crosswalk lines, lane arrows and ONLY legends at 317 intersections in 36 counties. Estimated completion date is Oct. 31.

Under part two, first priority is given to thermoplastic pavement markings at rural intersections, signalized and non-signalized, and at high-volume non-signalized intersections.

The purpose of the program is to demonstrate the effect of pavement markings, applied in accordance with Federal Highway Administration standards, in reducing highway accidents. Approximately $3.9 million is available under the program in the state for Fiscal Year 1975.

The 1973 Federal-Aid Highway Act requires that an accident analysis be performed by the states to evaluate the effectiveness of the pavement markings. Accident data for a one-year period before and a two-year period after the pavement marking completion will be used for the analysis.

Under part one of the Demonstration Program in 1974, pavement markings were applied to 2036 county and township highways in 57 counties including edge lines, center lines and lane lines, as applicable.
